Reviewer's Comment for Publication.

The manuscript presents a valuable discussion on the historical traditions, development, and literary importance of Urdu non-fiction literature. It provides a comprehensive overview of major literary genres, including biography, autobiography, essays, travel writing, sketches, and letter writing, while highlighting the contributions of prominent Urdu scholars and writers. The topic is relevant and contributes to the understanding of the evolution of Urdu prose literature.

The paper is generally well organized and easy to follow. However, a few minor revisions are recommended before publication. The introduction may be strengthened by clearly stating the research objectives and methodology. Some arguments would benefit from deeper critical analysis rather than descriptive presentation. The literature review can be expanded by incorporating a few recent scholarly references to demonstrate the contemporary relevance of the topic. Uniform formatting of headings, references, and citations should be ensured throughout the manuscript. In addition, careful proofreading is recommended to eliminate minor grammatical, typographical, and formatting inconsistencies.

Overall, the manuscript is informative, academically relevant, and suitable for publication after addressing these minor revisions.
