Detailed Reviewer's Report

The manuscript addresses a relevant and contemporary topic and provides a useful interdisciplinary discussion of digital technology, human values, social relationships, cultural identity, digital inequality, privacy, and artificial intelligence. The overall structure is clear and the arguments are generally coherent. However, minor revisions are required before publication. The authors should strengthen the connection between the literature reviewed and the main arguments, ensure consistency and accuracy in the reference list and citations, and improve the language and presentation in a few sections. A brief clarification of the conceptual methodology and selection of secondary literature would also improve the manuscript. Subject to these minor revisions, the manuscript may be considered for publication.
