Reviewer's Comment for Publication.

The manuscript addresses an important social issue and presents a clear, well-organized discussion of peace, tolerance, mutual understanding, and social harmony. The inclusion of theoretical perspectives from Galtung, Lederach, and Allport strengthens the conceptual foundation, while the discussion of education, family, cultural diversity, social justice, and institutional responsibilities adds practical relevance. The paper appropriately recognizes that genuine peace requires addressing discrimination, inequality, and exclusion rather than merely preventing direct violence. However, the literature-based methodology needs more detail regarding the selection and analysis of sources. The discussion would benefit from a more critical comparison of previous studies and a clearer explanation of the manuscript's original contribution. The author should also verify the accuracy and consistency of references and citations, correct the formatting issue in the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights reference, and address minor language and presentation issues. Overall, the manuscript is relevant and suitable for publication after minor revisions.
