Detailed Reviewer's Report

- The abstract should be made more analytical rather than normative, and several grammatical issues need correction to enhance academic quality.
- The methodology section identifies the study as library research relying on primary works of Amina Wadud and secondary scholarly sources. While this approach is appropriate for a conceptual and hermeneutical analysis, the section lacks sufficient methodological clarity and rigor.
- Your conclusion repeats the same idea twice in slightly different wording (lines 218–235).
- The references are relevant but inconsistently formatted. Several entries lack complete bibliographic details and do not follow a standard citation style. The reference list should be revised according to a recognized academic citation format.
- The technical quality of the manuscript does not yet meet international journal standards. Substantial editing for grammar, formatting consistency, and citation standardization is necessary.
