Detailed Reviewer's Report

The paper addresses a very relevant and sensitive issue and shows strong grounding in Islamic jurisprudence. It clearly explains the concept of marriage with the intention of divorce and supports the discussion with classical scholars like Ibn Taymiyyah and Ibn Qudamah, which adds depth and credibility. The structure is well organised with clear sections and the effort to connect the topic with the objectives of Islamic law is a strong point, showing thoughtful engagement with the subject. The use of original sources and detailed explanations reflects good research and understanding. At the same time, the paper can be improved by reducing repetition and simplifying the language to make it more concise and easier to read.
