Detailed Reviewer's Report

The manuscript has a potentially publishable contribution, particularly because of its focus on women media professionals in Côte d'Ivoire and gender-sensitive COVID-19 communication. However, the authors need to substantially strengthen the research gap, methodology, empirical findings, theoretical integration, and discussion before publication. If these issues are adequately addressed, the study could make a useful contribution to research on gender, journalism, social media, and crisis/public-health communication in Africa.
